

Network Updates | October 24, 2023

What Will You Learn During National Apprenticeship Week?

Have you registered for any National Apprenticeship Week (NAW) events yet? Now is a great time to explore available events and register for one that highlights an industry, talent pipeline, or type of partner with whom you have not traditionally engaged. Or look for events that spotlight partnerships or apprenticeship programs that you would like to see grow in your state. Check out events in new and emerging industries, such as green jobs-related infrastructure investments, clean energy, and cybersecurity jobs. Spread the word through social media with #NAW2023 and #ApprenticeshipUSA hashtags!

Making the Most of National Apprenticeship Week

There will not be a Network webinar in November so you can focus on NAW! Events you host and attend will bring together partners with a vested interest in expanding apprenticeship programs and creating a pipeline inclusive of everyone. So, as you make final preparations for NAW, consider some of the tips shared in last week's Network webinar on making the most of this time. Stay tuned for information about our December webinar in the next edition of our Network Updates!

Coming Soon! The Apprenticeship Professional Learning Portal

The next phase of the Apprenticeship Professionals Learning Network—the Apprenticeship Professional (AP) Learning Portal—is going live soon! The AP Learning Portal will be the virtual learning arm of the Network. You'll be able to access courses designed to deepen your knowledge of key apprenticeship topics. The AP Learning Portal will include the Apprenticeship 101 course, as well as modules in courses related to business engagement and supporting apprentice success (including Gender Equity in Construction and Pre-Apprenticeship). Watch for an email invite when the site goes live!
